E. F. FEAD, Clerk. SUNDAY'S FIRE.

The fire whistle from the waterworks for a quit claim deed of the widow's about 10:30 a. m. Sunday startled dower interest, and are in a position to everyone. It was soon learned that the convey a perfect and unencumbered fire was in the M. E. church, as smoke title to the land sold. was noticed during the Sunday school session. The firemen were quickly on the spot, but it seemed almost impos-sible for a time to locate the exact place where the fire was working, although there was plenty of snoke everywhere. Ho es were chopped in the floor and water turned on until the floor afterward was like a skating rink. Outside the walls in places were torn out, the doors and windows to the basement pulled down and water poured everywhere. It was finally discovered that the fire was eating its way directly over the furnace, and then after a hard struggle the flames were got under control and the build-ing saved. A sorry looking place it was, with windows, doors and seats broken, and the floor badly chopped up, but the faithful fire service saved the church. The insurance company has placed the loss at $570, and the building will be immediately put into good shape agem.

A SAD DEATH.

The terrible news was received here The terrible news was received here on Friday last of the instant death of Wm. J. Minnie, son of Frank Minnie, of Port Huron, formerly of Vale, and brother to Frank Minnie, of W. H. Ballentine's store. W. J. Minnie was a lireman on engine No. 2, on the F. & P. M. R'v, and as the train pulled into Croswell from Sand Beach about 1:30 Friday afternoon, Will climbed upon the tender of the locomotive to make water connections at the lank, and water connections at the tank, and lost his balance as the air brakes were set. He fell between the locomotive set. He fell between the locomotive and the car Two trucks passed over his body and he was picked up dead. The funeral was held in Port Huron The funeral was held in Port Huron Sunday afternoon, and thus another young life has been out short for some good purpose of our Father's. A good boy, highly respected by his many friends, a dearly beloyed son and well worthy of the regard of all. The deepest sympathy of the community is with the family and relatives of the deceased.

Was That of David J. Davidson, who Died Very Suddenly at his Home in Detroit, last Thursday Morning.

On Thursday, the 2nd inst, a message was received in Yale, announcing the death of David Davidson, at Detroit, on the morning of that day. The community had not known of his sick-ness, and the amounteement that he was dead created a sorrowful surprise in a large circle of friends and ac-quaintances.

Mr. Davidson had been ill only a few days with what seemed to be simple laryngeal troubles. So slight were the outward manifestations of illness, that neither the attending physician or family apprehended any danger, and the pati-nt was not wholly confined to his bed. Suddenly, on Thursday morning he complained of trouble in breathing and asked that a window be opened to admit fresh air. This was scarcely accomplished ere he became unconscious, and in a few moments his soul had gone the way of all the earth.

In early life the deceased came from his birthplace in England to this country, where he remained some years, and returned to his native land. After the lapse of a period of years, he again set out for America, with the purpose of making that land his country and home. He settled in Brockway, where he met and married his now bereaved widow, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs Harrison Smith, who with two children yet re main to mourn their loss.

After some years business interests led Mr. Davidson to move to Detroit, which was his home at the time of his He was a very active and hard working business man, pushing his pians and purposes with all the energy of both mind and body. His business methods were characterized by intense assiduity and application.

The funeral service occurred at The funeral service occurred at Brockway on Sunday, Feb. 5th, and was conducted by the Masonic lodge, No. 316, of Yale, of which he was a member. Amid the selemn funeral rites and honors of the order, his body was laid to rest in the Moore cemetery. The esteem in which the deceased was Mann, that bills as read be allowed and orders for the several amounts be drawn on the Freasurer.—Larried.
